

Those who have not received a notice or confirmation form regarding the shortfall benefit are required to submit an application form.

To help ease the burden on household finances due to rising prices, fixed-sum tax reductions were implemented in FY2024 (a ¥30,000 reduction on income tax and a ¥10,000 reduction on the income-based portion of resident tax). Additionally, based on income received in 2023, individuals who were not expected to receive the full benefit of these reductions were provided with an adjustment benefit. After the final amounts of income tax and fixed-sum tax reductions for 2024 were confirmed, the benefit amount was then recalculated. Accordingly, a shortfall benefit will be provided to those whose previous benefit was found to be insufficient as a result of this recalculation.

Individuals who may be eligible to apply for the shortfall benefit, such as those who moved to Fukuoka City from another municipality during 2024. (See the flowchart on the reverse side.)

Note: Please note that even if the flowchart indicates your eligibility to apply, you may still be found ineligible to receive the benefit as a result of the review.

If the above condition applies to you, please submit an application form.
Those who have received the Fixed-sum Tax Reduction Shortfall Benefit Notice or the Fixed-sum Tax Reduction Shortfall Benefit Confirmation Form do not need to submit an application form.

Submissions made at city or ward office counters will not be accepted.

Please submit the form along with the required documents listed on the reverse side (copies of an identity verification document and a document verifying your bank account information).
For instructions on how to fill out the application form, please refer to the Fukuoka City website or the attached document, How to Complete the Shortfall Benefit Application Form.

Shortfall Benefit I

The shortfall benefit amount is calculated as follows: (i) + (ii) - (iii)

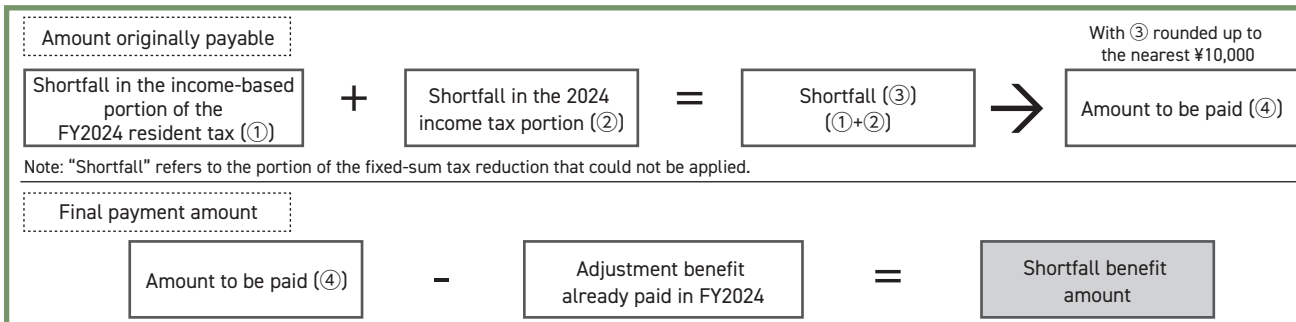

Where:

(i) = The portion of the fixed-sum tax reduction that could not be applied to the FY2024 resident tax (shortfall in the income-based portion of resident tax)

(ii) = The portion of the fixed-sum tax reduction that could not be applied to the 2024 income tax (shortfall in the income tax portion).

(iii) = The adjustment benefit amount

Shortfall Benefit II

40,000 yen in principle

▶ When the shortfall benefit will be paid

Payment may take approximately one month after your application is received and approved by Fukuoka City.
Payment may be delayed due to incompleteness, missing attachments, or verification of your benefit status with other municipalities.
Once the review is complete, we will send a Notice of Benefit Decision stating the payment amount and date to those who are eligible.

Beware of scams and identity theft!

- The city will never ask you to make any transactions at an ATM.
- The city will never send a representative to visit your home regarding the benefit.

If you receive any suspicious phone calls or visitors claiming to be from the city government, please contact your local police station or call the police consultation hotline on #9110.
