What to do if a missile is launched at Fukuoka City

Sending Information to Residents

In the event of a missile launch suspected to have an impact on Fukuoka City, the government will disperse information via 'J-Alert', sending the information to your mobile phone either as Emergency Alert Mail (Softbank, au, Y!mobile) or Area Mail (Docomo).

※Some mobile phones/carriers may not be able to receive emergency information, such as those which are SIM-free. Please download a smartphone application like 'Yahoo! JAPAN disaster prevention flash report' to serve as a replacement.

When emergency alerts are issued via text message

[When you are outdoors]

- Head into the nearest roofed structure.
- Evacuate to the sturdiest structure you can find, such as underground facilities like subway stations, underground shopping arcades, or concrete buildings.
- Should you find no evacuation sites in the area, go find shade to hide in, or lie down on the ground and cover your head.

[When you are indoors]

- Broken pieces of windows or doors may be dangerous.
- Lie down in the center of the building, staying away from windows or doors.

Please regularly check for information issued by the government or the municipalities.
